

News and Information That Empowers The Black Business Community!
Friday, DEC 29, 2006

Author Tackles Taboo Racial Topic In New Book

28.DEC.06

Veronica Blakely's book titled: I Want What Most White Women Got: A Black Man is now available for purchase through the Author's website: www.vs-voice.com

This book of poetry pulls back the covers on an issue that has been discussed privately in the African American community for years.

Veronica has decided to unveil this matter in topics like:

- * Phat vs. FAT
 - * Drama Queen
 - * W.W.W.F. (White Women Won't Fight)
 - * Low-down vs. Down-low
 - * She is Still White to Me
- and many more...*

The response for the anticipated release of this book has stirred up conversations by many as to whether dating relationships in the African American community are as great a problem as suggested by the author.

You can have your chance to voice your opinion by inviting Ms. Blakely to take part in your book club discussions by contacting her through her e-mail address: vsvoice@aol.com . Type "Book Club Inquiries" in the subject line.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Veronica Blakely is a native of Tampa, Florida where she teaches Reading to inner city High School students. She previously worked as a Manager in Corporate America; however, she considers being a Teacher the most important, challenging and rewarding opportunity of her career.

Veronica is also a Voice Over Talent, Speech Coach, Reading Coach and she teaches life skills to inner city kids and adults on a consultant basis. She is a member of Bible Based Fellowship Church in Carrollwood and she is a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. Veronica also served as a former President and Area Governor of a Toastmaster's International Public Speaking club.

Veronica has a Masters Degree in Management and she is working on her PhD in Education. Her plans are to continue working in the inner city to increase academic excellence among youth.

- Press Release